

Star Wars Plane Being Launched
by All Nippon Airways Later this Year

It (0)might not be the droid you're looking for, but a plane painted to look like R2-D2 could be the next best thing for Star Wars fans (1)_____ for The Force Awakens.

Japan's All Nippon Airways (ANA) has (2)_____ a Boeing 787 Dreamliner decorated to look like the robot. The pilots' (3)_____ and front half of the white fuselage are painted with blue panels in the shape of those on the droid. Star Wars is also written on the (4)_____ of the plane behind the wing. Images released by the company show the tail in ANA's normal livery.

All Nippon Airways says the jet will go (5)_____ service on an international route later this year ahead of the film's release. Fans got their first look at a new teaser trailer for Star Wars: The Force Awakens, the seventh (6)_____ of one of the most successful movie series of all time, on Thursday.

The clip shows aerial dogfights featuring the X-Wings of the Rebel Alliance and the Tie Fighters of the Galactic Empire. You can also catch a (7)_____ of Han Solo and Chewbacca along with the Millennium Falcon. The trailer ends with Han Solo, played by an Harrison Ford, saying: "Chewie, we're home."

The film is due for (8)_____ in December.
